OUR LADY OF THE BLESSED SACRAMENT PARISH

"whoever eats this bread will live forever." —John 6:51

Nineteenth Sunday in Ordinary Time | August 11, 2024

Under Mary's mantle, and with the guidance of the Holy Trinity, Our Lady of the Blessed Sacrament seeks to share God's love by celebrating the sacraments, proclaiming the gospel, and serving the needs of all His children.

As you are reading this, I am finishing up a brief vacation. Hopefully when you see me next I will be refreshed and rested, ready to begin our new school and pastoral year! I am very grateful to the visiting priests who are helping with Masses while I am away.

Since this vacation was scheduled before we planned on offering a preaching series during these weeks of the “Bread of Life” discourse, I wanted to offer some thoughts on how this weekend’s Gospel connects to our celebration of the Mass.

With the miracle of the multiplication of the loaves, we saw how it was important for us to try and be prepared for the celebration of Mass. Last week, the discussion of our ancestors eating manna in the desert connected to our own participation in the Liturgy of the Word and increasing our desire for God—“Give us this bread always!”

This week, we see how the people begin to question who Jesus is and, once again, take offense at him. “Isn’t this the son of Joseph? We know his father and mother!” One of the great temptations for us as human beings is to think that we can define God. We like to be the ones who decide what God can and can’t do, what God does and doesn’t want from our lives. In essence—as it was at the Fall in the garden—we want to be gods ourselves.

The Creed that we profess at Mass is a great antidote to that. It is a reminder for us that what we know about God has first of all been revealed to us by God himself. We do not get to decide who God is. Jesus reminds us that “It is written in the prophets: They shall all be taught by God.” When together we make our profession of the faith, as passed down from generation to generation, we can have confidence in Jesus’ promise: “whoever believes has eternal life.”

Precisely because we believe that God loves us, saves us, and sustains us, we are then ready to bring all our prayers before him. We have to acknowledge who God is first, and only then does it make sense that we ask him for anything.

But God also asks something from us in return: our whole hearts, our whole selves. Just as Jesus tells us that he gives his “flesh for the life of the world,” so too we have to make our own offering to God. The time of the offertory is more than just to sing a hymn, have ushers take a collection, and have people bring up bread and wine. These actions are all symbols. In them, we have to learn to see more than just what is visible to our eyes.

In the offertory, we should be thinking about how we are placing everything that we have and are upon the altar. Very soon, the priest will ask the Father that our own union with Jesus might “make of us an eternal offering”. When the basket comes around, I am not just dropping in an envelope. The gifts are not just bread and wine. It is my whole heart. I can just as well say the words of St. Ignatius in that moment: “Take, Lord, and receive all my liberty, my memory, my understanding, and my entire will, all I have and call my own. You have given all to me. To you, Lord, I return it. Everything is yours; do with it what you will. Give me only your love and your grace, that is enough for me.”

—Fr. Dan

Discussion Questions

How are we impacted when we receive Communion at Mass?

How do you prepare for Communion? What can we do at Mass to best receive the Eucharist?

We need daily food to nourish our physical bodies. How does this compare with the Eucharist for our souls?

Liturgical Ministers Needed

Liturgical Ministries enhance our worship and provide unique opportunities to deepen our faith and serve our community. Lectors proclaim the Word of God. Extraordinary Ministers of Holy Communion distribute the precious body of Christ. Greeters and Ushers create a warm and welcoming atmosphere. We are also looking for both youth and adult Altar Servers to assist the clergy in the celebration of Mass.
